For kids, but not child's play

OUR CORRESPONDENT

Jamshedpur: Karim City College student Shyamam Sarkar and his team members are a happy lot for bringing about a positive change in Kapsali village in neighbouring Seraikela-Kharsawan district. But just three years ago, when the National Service Scheme (NSS) team had adopted the village, people were hardly aware of basic hygiene practices.

Most of them did not have toilets and children were playing about the merits of washing their hands.

Today, the village kids wash their hands before having meals and the children are aware of their fundamental rights.

As part of the awareness campaign, the NSS wing of the college is currently carrying out a week-long drive (December 25 to December 31) in the village to generate awareness about health and hygiene cleanliness. Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana, toilet construction under Swachh Bharat Mission and Ujjwala Yojana so that they can lead a healthy life and avail their rights.

blood donation, personality development for children and awareness on HIV and diseases.

"Villagers know about a few government schemes, but they are unaware how to avail the benefits. As college students we try to help the villagers by providing them information about the schemes and how to apply for it," said Sarkar.

"Our biggest feat has been children washing their hands before eating. Another achievement is that many people now have toilets in their houses as part of the Swachh Bharat Mission. We hope to bring about more positive changes," he said, adding the volunteers stay in the village from 9am to 4pm daily.

Member Sajid Perwez appreciated the students for working hard to bring about positive changes in the village. Every year, the NSS wing of Karim City College runs innovative campaigns in this village, he added.

"Even in this hot cold, students are eager to visit the village and help the people. Social work will make them better human beings," Perwez added.
