Slow & Advance Learners

Distinguishing between Slow Learners and Fast Learners

Every classroom is composed, largely, of average students. A few among them, however, are noticeably either slow or fast learners. Both groups require special attention.

Slow learners are those whose learning pace is slower than that of their peers. Such learners need more attention, short, simple and detailed instructions, and constant mentoring and guidance to accomplish their learning outcomes.

Slow learners must be offered opportunities to explore themselves, identify their shortcomings, and receive guidance, counselling and mentorship to overcome the identified weaknesses. They also need to be exposed to motivational talk and confidence-boosting sessions in order to not feel unworthy or have a low self-esteem.

Fast learners are those who are identified as possessing active listening and analytical skills. Such learners are able to absorb ideas, concepts, and instructions with less or minimum guidance.

Fast learners need encouragement, guidance and counselling to ensure that they maintain their performance and justify their potential by expanding their range of knowledge and expertise. They also need to be taught to be more responsible as individuals and to use their learning capacities for social good.

Learner Identification

The Department attempts to identify Slow and Fast learners as per the following criteria:

1. Participation in classroom discussions
2. Sharing of ideas and information
3. One-to-one mentoring sessions
4. Performance in class tests/ assignments/student seminars
5. Participation and performance in activities of the department
6. Discussions with parents at Parent-Teacher Meetings
7. Participation and performance in Group/collaborative work
8. Examination results

Measures for Slow Learners:

1. One-to-one interactions with learners and their parents to assess their needs and aspirations
2. Monitoring their academic performance and participation in learning activities inside the classroom
3. Remedial classes to help them cover the syllabus at their own pace
4. Regular practice tests and assignments to prepare them for examinations
5. Personal counselling to help them stay motivated
6. Encouragement through appreciation of improvement in performance

Measures for Fast Learners:

1. Providing more opportunities to develop their creativity by participating in inter-college, university, and other national level programmes
2. Semester toppers as well as gold medallists at the university level are encouraged with certificates and awards
3. Selecting such students to hold responsible positions within the college as members in various important committees and cells
4. Offering them access to more books and study material in order to help them increase their knowledge and performance
5. Taking a keen interest in their career and encouraging them to prepare for competitive examinations
6. Regular counselling and monitoring of their performance to ensure that they do not become complacent and suffer setbacks
